

Trust Fund Established for Local Referee

Attention: Editor, Sports Editor

Date: January 11, 2010

Stratford, ON— Community members have established a trust fund for local referee Kevin Brown, who was injured during a game between the Woodstock Renegades and New Hamburg Firebirds in late December. Brown, 25, remains in hospital.

Members of the public who would like to support Brown and his family can make donations at any Libro Financial Group branch.

“People are wondering how they can help out,” says Marty Rops, Libro’s Stratford Branch Manager. “We welcome donations and will ensure they get to Kevin and his family to help with his long-term recovery.”

Libro Financial Group is southwestern Ontario’s full-service financial institution operated by a community of owners and open to everyone. With 52,000 owners and more than $1.6 billion in assets under administration, Libro delivers a full range of chequing, savings, investment, RRSP, insurance and loan products along with financial coaching and advice for consumers, and farm and business owners.
